

Midtown muses

JUST as we have Colaba art weekends every alternate Thursday during season-time, some midtown gallerists are gathering together to form their own group of art trawls. The Midtown Galleries Collective is getting some wind under its sails, thanks to the efforts of Rashmi Dhanwani, and it aims at starting its evening gallery visits on alternate Fridays from June. Some really landmark places count themselves as part of this group, such as the Bhau Daji Lad Museum and the Piramal Museum. There are also Anupa Mehta's advisory, Kalpana Shah's Tao, Tarana Khubchandani's Gallery Art and Soul, Priyasri Patodia's gallery space and Anuradha Benegal's performance space G5A. While you can barely walk from one space to the other midtown, what's a little traffic when there's so much art to soothe the soul.
